The gang from The Rainbow Hunters take us on adventure that shows you never know where a journey might take you...

Back together for another adventure, our four very determined friends—Bill, Jyn, Will, and Liz—and their dog, Cheesecake, embark one day on a trip in search of the mythical creature known as Bigfoot. As the kids search the forest, Cheesecake follows the scent of his own trail—one that leads straight to a family of Bigfoots. When the foursome notice Cheesecake has left, they reset their mission to go search for their dog instead. Along the way, the kids learn that, no matter where we go, there are wonderful things that surround us—even when we're not looking for them!

A heartwarming tale about devotion and generosity for all lovers of gnomes and whimsical forest creatures.

Many moons ago, in a tiny, thatched cottage at the edge of the woods, lived two children named Isaura and Arlo with their hedgehog, Crispin. When their beloved pet becomes ill, Isaura suggests that they seek the magical healing power of gnomes. Convinced this will heal it, the children set off into the woods with humble offerings, hoping to attract the gnomes. The trick does not seem to work, however, and gnomes are nowhere to be seen despite the children's good intentions.

Elsie

Elsie

Text: Nadine Robert
Illustrations: Maja Kastelic

Hardcover
28 × 24.5 cm
40 pages

October 2018 • CAN$22.95
Fiction

Introducing the concepts of individuality and personality in a vibrant way, this story proves that thinking outside the box and owning up to your own choices can be fruitful for everyone and can open others' minds.

The Filpot children love to go fishing on Sundays. And, every Sunday, when it is nice and sunny, they always follow the same routine. Except for Elsie, who prefers to do things her own way... Why should she act like everyone when she can follow the path along the creek, feed a duck with a sandwich, or catch a fish with a buttercup? What if Elsie was right? After all, being different opens new horizons.

Fiction

We all make small mistakes sometimes. But, when we do, things don't need to be blown out of proportion. This rhyming text conveyed by a child's thoughts and accompanied by expressive, compelling illustrations shows us that it isn't always a good idea to make a mountain out of a molehill.

Doing silly things is no big deal. When I play in puddles, dig holes in the lawn, invent stories using Grandpa's computer, try all of my uncle's tools, pick up the neighbour's flowers without asking permission, and draw on the walls of my room, there's no reason for drama or panic. Those are small blunders or harmless mistakes. But sometimes, things do go wrong ... and then it's really CATAstrophic!
